Irish Stout

The famous Irish stout has always been brewed in Ireland. The mixture of the best barley malt, crystal malt and heavily roasted barley gives the beer its deep black color and the typical aroma and the typical aroma, black, malty and soft as velvet. The soul of Ireland.

Ale

Top-fermented, English beer type. Ale's are strong in flavor, malty and reddish-brown in red-brown color. In our country: Newcastle and Murphys.

Pils

The pale bottom-fermented lager is the most popular type of beer. It is mildly hopped and has a round taste. This also includes the common terms „Helles“ and „Pils“.

Cider

The basic ingredients of cider are special apple varieties. The apples are processed at a certain degree of ripeness and brewed in a similar way to beer with the addition of yeast.

Lager

Lager has a light malt character. The ingredients are different from a normal beer and are imported from all over the world to ensure the original taste here too. The ingredients are water, malt, hops and glucose syrup.

Kellerbier

Straight from the lager cellar, Franziskaner Kellerbier is a traditional beer that is bottled unfiltered and therefore still contains all the clouding ingredients. This gives it its characteristic amber color and full-bodied, velvety taste.

The name Kildare is derived from the Irish Cill Dara, which means the church of the oak tree, and is a county in the east of the Republic of Ireland. In the west of the county lies the town of the same name, known for the Irish National Stud, which is dedicated to Irish thoroughbred breeding.

Our pub is based on the traditions of Irish hospitality, we celebrate Irish holidays, attach great importance to a typical Irish ambience and offer you a wide selection of food and drink.

With this in mind:

May the Irish hills caress you. May the lakes and rivers bless you. May the luck of the Irish enfold you. May the blessings of Saint Patrick behold you. Cheers!
